What are National Standards?

“National Standards in reading, writing and mathematics provide signposts that give children, teachers, parents, families and whānau a clear idea of where children are achieving in their learning and what they have to do next.”

- Ministry of Education, 2010

NZ Curriculum Levels and National Standards

Achievement measured Against National Standards

National Standards are measured at the end of an academic year.

Exceeding the expectation for their year level.

At the standard:

Meeting the expectations at their year level.

Below the standard:

Not achieving the expectation for their year level.

Well below the standard:

Achieving more than one year below the expectation for their year level.

Mid Year Report

As National Standards are measured at the end of the year, three indicators are used on the Mid Year Report to indicate a student's progress in relation to the Standard:

Working towards* the National Standard.

On track to be at Standard.

On track to being above Standard.

Key Points

- National Standards are measured at the end of the year, therefore:
 - Mid year reporting is an indication of progress towards National Standards.
 - End of year reporting is measured against National Standards.
- National Standards are determined using a range of evidence from all areas of the curriculum.
- Teachers use a range of evidence from a number of sources – continually and periodically.

Important Dates

Reports go home and interviews open:

Thursday 7 July

Triadic Interviews:

Wednesday 27 and Thursday 28 July
